

In EYFS, we plan to deliver a balanced literacy curriculum that incorporates a carefully selected range of fiction, non-fiction and poetry texts from diverse cultures. These texts are closely aligned with our half-termly topics and provide the foundation for our literacy teaching. In line with the principles outlined in 'Development Matters', we maintain flexibility in our planning to support the 'unique child' principle. While the selected texts serve as our starting point, we actively follow children's interests and respond to their individual needs. When introducing each new topic, we encourage families to share related books from home, enriching our curriculum and strengthening the home-school partnership in supporting children's literacy development.
