All things are DIFFICULT before they BECOME easy.”

WW2 STORIES SHARED BY THOSE THAT KNOW BEST! - This week, our Year 5 pupils organised a Tea Treat for invited guests from the community. As part of their history topic on WW2, our Year 5 pupils have been involved in preparing for a D-Day event at Trebah Gardens. This has involved working with artists on a dance presentation, musical memory sounds and 3D memory boxes. The invited guests were interviewed about their experiences in WW2 and their stories were included in the memory boxes. On June 7th, the Year 5 pupils will be joining other schools in the partnership to present a WW2 event through all forms of the creative arts. We are very grateful to the organisers of this event and would also like to say a very big thank you to our special guests this week, who have helped to make this part of history more real for our pupils.

Our Year 5 and our special guests had fun recording stories shared on white paper table clothes and talking about their history books.

CELEBRATING THE TALENTS OF OUR PARENTS! - Congratulations to Louise Danks, Violet and Hazel's mummy, who received a Gold Medal at the Chelsea Flower Show, and we can clearly see why! Louise has kindly agreed to come in to school to talk to the children about her work. We are always keen to have parents coming in to share their skills or talk about their work. Please do feel free to talk to your child's class teacher if you would feel happy to come in to talk to the children.

MRS LEA AND HER WONDERFUL ART!- For those of you who may not be aware, Mrs Lea has continued to flourish and inspire since retiring. A talented artist, her felting work is now displayed in various art galleries across Cornwall and she is becoming a quite a name in her field. If you would like to see Mrs Lea's wonderful art, she will be displaying her work at the open studios between 25th May to the 2nd June. Visit this website to find out more:

As a Cornish textile artist, my work is inspired by my surroundings. I have always loved drawing and painting. I endeavour to capture the world around me, the landscapes, the light, colours and textures.

Wet Felting has become my passion. I get completely lost in making a unique piece of colourful fabric from wool roving. It's like magic watching the individual fibres and silks bind together to create a landscape or sculptured vessel. I love the feel of it between my fingers, it handles well as a textile. It's warm, strong and versatile. I take fine strands of merino wool and blend them to create the colours I need.

To me it is 'painting' in a different way.

Felting is an ancient technique, dating from approximately 2,000 years ago in which wool fibres are matted together to create an unwoven textile.

In order to create wet felted wool, you need heat, moisture and agitation.

There are different ways of making felt I use wet felting and needle felting.

Wet felting uses water, soap and agitation to interlock and compact wool fibres together, needle felting uses barbed needles to stab and tangle the wool fibres together.
